St. Joseph's Hospital Building Fund will benefit from the late November performances of "Francis," a light-hearted and inspiring musical based on the life of St. Francis of Assisi, whose eighth Centenary began Oct. 4.

The play, written by Richard Duprey and Ken Ford for the 41st International Eucharistic Congress in Philadelphia in 1976, has played to critical acclaim and overflowing audiences in its subsequent revivals there and off-Broadway.

The play is being presented in this diocese by Carbondale's West Side Players at Marian Hall, Professional Building, under the direction of Barbara Arabio.

The premiere performance on Friday, Nov. 20, will be exclusively for patrons, at $10 a ticket, with a reception to follow in Marian Hall.

Additional performances will be given at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 21 and Sunday, Nov. 22. Tickets are $8 for adults and $2 for students. A matinee will also be presented at 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 22.

"Francis" will also be given at 2 and 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 5 at the Fine Arts Theatre at Marywood College.

Players taking part in the show are from not only the Carbondale area, but from towns ranging from Homestead to Wilkes-Barre. Their combined credits are impressive and their experience is wide-ranging.

Appearing in the title role as St. Francis of Assisi will be Bill Cambardella of Kingston, who is employed in the personnel service of the Veterans Administration Medical Center, Wilkes-Barre.

Cambardella, who possesses a warm baritone voice, has appeared in summer theater completed an engagement at the Station Restaurant, Wilkes-Barre. Proficient on the trumpet and guitar, he has worked in a musical ministry and in liturgical music at Our Lady of Fatima, Elmhurst. A graduate of the University of Scranton, where he majored in philosophy and theology, he was reared in Bowie, Md.

Rehearsals for "Francis," which began in October under the direction of Ms. Arabio, continue three and four nights a week at Marian Hall. Accompanying the cast, which numbers about 17, will be Ms. Arabio on piano, Jerry Marione, guitar and Joe DeMark, drums.

Sharon Lubazewski and Margaret Sabosky are in charge of counting.

The play is being presented in this diocese by Carbondale's West Side Players at Marian Hall, Professional Building, under the direction of Barbara Arabio.

Tickets for "Francis" are available from the Diocesan Guild Station in both Scranton and Carbondale, from any member of the cast, or by telephoning St. Joseph's Hospital, 262-2108.

Mr. Rita Burke, who is serving as chairman of the show, requests that tickets be purchased in advance of the performance, although some tickets will be available at the door.

It might have been Dog Day Afternoon

By N. WATERS

It might have been a "Dog Day Afternoon." It could have been a comedy of errors. It might have made a hero out of an up-culley policeman. Actually it was none of those things, but it did cause a flurry of statements in Jermyn last Wednesday afternoon, an afternoon when the little up-valley town closes its doors at noon.

It began for the MIRROR with two almost identical telephone calls from readers crying excitedly. "There's been a holdup at the First National Bank of Jermyn!"

One caller added, "There are police cars all over the place, and they captured the robber."

We immediately dispatched our photographer and made some confirming telephone calls. Reports were conflicting. The police cars had disappeared, but there was a small out-of-state car parked near the bank.

Our photographer called back the next day. No action at the scene of the reported holdup, but he did get a photo of the car in question and the bank.

Later that day we visited Jermyn Police

Headquarters to check the incident report. Chief Alfred J. Zaborowski was up to his badge in first-of-the-month reports, but he took time out to show us the report, and remark that "Jimmy" (Patrolman James M. Kelly, who had been on duty that afternoon) "hadn't written much."

The report went like this: at 1:45 p.m. Kelly had received on his police radio a BOLO (be on the lookout) warning for a small bear station wagon with out-of-state plates.

Later the MIRROR learned Kelly had (as he put it) "gotten lucky," and spotted the car on Route 107 near Jermyn. At 2:15, Kelly's report goes, he apprehended the subject at the First National Bank of Jermyn. Lines from Archibald Scott Township, Greenfield Township and Clifford Township were reportedly called as backup.

As eye witnesses who happened to be working across from the bank told this newspaper, the police cars converged on the bank, apprehended the subject and brought him out, spread-eagled.

Kelly's report says succinctly, "230, assisted Clifford Township with processing."

Stories floating everywhere were that the subject had burglarized a Crystal Lake home of $180 and then went into the Jermyn bank, presumably to cash stolen checks. Why anyone fleeing police would visit the bank on Nov. 4, a day after it had been closed for Election Day, and a day when it was crowded with older people cashing Social Security checks, was anyone's guess.

A call from the MIRROR's police reporter to that township's constable Ed Miller, where the alleged fugitive had been taken, showed that "all charges have been dropped...it was a family matter."

Reportedly the un-bank-rober was arraigned before District Magistrate Barbara Cholewa of Hartford, Susquehanna County, and the case dismissed.

It might have been a great story on a quiet Wednesday afternoon. It got the newsmen's adrenalin pumping for an hour or two. It surely gave Jermyn Patrolman Kelly a little lift. And the brevity of his incident report proved one thing. Officer Kelly will never write the great American novel.

Early ice skates were fashioned out of the brisket bones of oxen and fastened to the soles of the skaters' boots by thongs.
